Mentoring Reflection

I have just completed 15 hours of mentoring at White Hall Elementary here in Richmond. I was mentoring to students that ranged from 3rd grade to 5th grade. Not only did I help them learn new skills, but I also learned from each one of them. My time spent mentoring was very rewarding and satisfying.

I had a really good time working with these young student’s. Even though I am going to be a middle school educator, I found working with younger children rewarding. I also found that working with younger students I need to work on being patient. I believe that being patient is a major key of becoming a good educator. As I mentored these young children, I found that each group had high learning ability and each group of students reacted differently. Giving these students time and patients, each will do well in life and school.

Doing my Mentoring Project just didn’t help out the children, it also helped me in becoming a better educator. I feel more comfortable after doing my Mentoring Project on how to deal with different age groups. I feel my Mentoring Project was successful. I know now why I chose to become a educator.
